10 November 2014

Run #1573rd

Virgin Lay

When: Monday, Nov. 10th, 2014 @7:00 pm
Hare(s): Double 06.9
Where: Carleton Tavern, 223 Armstrong Street
Hash Cash: $5 for Hash down-downs
Hashers: 30 including: 2 virgins (Just Ben, Kelden),
1 visitor (Just Rens)
Distance: Runners 8.87 Kms
Walkers They have no idea

A few rain showers were falling as the hashers began to assemble at the Carleton. But they were no deterrent to the harder hashers.

During the opening circle the hashers were wondering just what was in store for them when the virgin hare said that she didn't understand her marks! For instance, when she drew a circle and was asked, "What does it mean?" Her reply, "I don't know, either a check or a hold, whatever you want it to be." She went on to tell us about some glow in the dark children's putty that would light our path along parts of the trail. Double 06.9 also said that the runners may find it short and would either give out more putty or we could run it twice.

No matter what the instructions were the hashers happily set out on the trail. The walkers following dutifully along with Double 06.9 and the runners in search of trail. It was soon apparent that either there were not very many marks in some areas or the rain had washed them away.

When entering the Experimental Farm we did see some white blobs on the fence posts and deduced that this was the Glow In the Dark Putty. However, even when getting close and directly shining our lights on them there was no glow... Never-the-less it this part may have been the best marked portion of the trail!

Between laps 4 and 5 (Anna Ave & Tunis Ave) the runners were going in circles attempting to find the trail. They came across a circle with an x with arrows leading to it and then an arrow circling around it. This had the half minds wondering just what it really meant and went off in all directions to try and find the trail. Eventually it was ON ON along Anna where they did come across some marks and it was away once again.

When the runners finally reached the rehydration stop, which was within sight of the ON IN, they were glad that it was a short run because they would not want to run one of her long runs.

When brought into the circle to defend her trail Double 06.9 listened to the comments which ranged from to short, not enough rain, no marks, where was the glow in the dark - you have to have it in the light to make it glow. While making the usual virgin errors, especially when set without a mentor, the trail was marked .0069. We are all eagerly awaiting her next trail!

The two virgins Just Ben, and Just Kelden were brought into the circle and introduced. It was discovered that Just Ben the virgin from last week had recruited two more. Of course Comes in Pairs was brought in for bringing the first Just Ben. I know it gets confusing. The two virgins were hooted down when they decided to take option two and sing a duet. The visitor Just Rens from Cranbrook was brought by his daughter Anna Dud who graciously did not one but two down downs.

It was also determined that it was time for Just Becky to have the dubious honour of being named. The circle discovered that the young harriette was a Scottish Lass who specialized in highland dancing. After many names were put forth, Snatchatory came up with the one that received 100% approval. Consequently Just Becky shall no more be known by that name but in hashing she shall be now known as Lift Skirt Insert!

A note to:

HARES: Now that it is getting wet and dark, you can never have too many marks. Light coloured chalk works a lot better than dark chalk, orange drink crystals on snow do not show under the tungsten lights.

PACK: The word of the day is ON ON!
